CHICAGO COURSE ON PREACHING

God's Word is essential to the life and ministry of the church. Preaching is the primary means of communicating God's Word to the church. The challenge of rightly handling the Bible and communicating it in our world requires conviction, competency, and lots of practice. The Chicago Course on Preaching (CCP) offers rigorous and church-based training to meet the need.

GET REPS

One unique aspect of the CCP is that it is an experiential preaching lab. Much of your time is spent working on your own work. You will prepare over 200 sermon outlines, discussing each one in a group setting. You will preach over 40 times, getting quality feedback. Our goal is to help you develop "muscle memory" like an athlete and find your own voice. As your competency increases, so will your confidence.

DEVELOP SKILLS

The daily instructions and practice group times focus on developing your abilities and instincts in handling and communicating the Bible. At the CCP you will develop proficiency in exegesis, gain strategies for theological reflection, and learn techniques for persuasive delivery.

REAL RELATIONSHIPS

No one takes the CCP alone. You will train and grow alongside other members of a cohort. You will sharpen one another, serve together, support one another, and join a network of expositors around the globe who work hard to preach well.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY

"The CCP has been critical in my own training in connecting my seminary education to the practical nuts and bolts of preaching and pastoral ministry."

THEO SIU, ASSISTANT PASTOR

IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH, CHICAGO, IL

"The CCP helped me maximize my time in sermon preparation. With the tools I gained, I can apprehend the structure and emphasis of texts quickly, allowing more time for crafting my sermon and for ministry responsibilities."

WALTER CARTER III, SENIOR PASTOR

UNION TABERNACLE MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH, CHICAGO, IL

IX

Matthias Bible Guides

These aim to help Bible teachers of all levels engage with the word of God and prepare themselves to teach the Bible to others. This series is for the Bible study leader who wants to equip himself or herself to prepare and lead studies that are faithful to the Scriptures and to answer questions with confidence.

New & Noteworthy

Craig Hamilton explains how to deeply and rightly read and understand the Bible by considering important issues such as context, genre, key words, Old Testament quotations, history, theology, and more. At the end of each step, he gives a masterclass on how to apply what has been covered by showing his working when exegeting the account in Mark 5 of Jesus' interaction with the demon-possessed man.

For the Christian

Our Learn Together courses are designed to foster learning from the Bible with others. They consist of high-quality workbooks and free online videos, taking the memorable Two Ways to Live summary of the Christian gospel and present it with expanded material so Christians can learn the key components of Jesus' teaching and be equipped to share it with others. Learn more at matthiasmedia.com/learnthegospel

For the non-Christian

Get the gospel in front of people through a tract, short book or evangelistic course. The teaching of Jesus has been undeniably influential in our world. It has deeply shaped our Western society, and has almost certainly shaped each of us, even if we're not particularly conscious of it. Which is all a bit strange, because that teaching is largely focused on the meaning of Jesus' death on a Roman cross, and the surprising claim that he had risen from the dead. The Discover course aims to create a space for the non-Christian to consider the claims of Jesus.
